

Notice that we've already been thinking about object-oriented since the Fall!!

Note: methods that have no return data are represented by single-headed arrows while those that do return data are double-headed